

Blog 2

The two accounts differ on what the authors focused on in their writings. The Spanish author focused more on the goods they received. He goes into great detail about all the feathers, clothes, and gold they got. The indigenous author talks more about the meeting with the Spanish. He talks about how the Spanish people tied them up and made them eat food with blood all over it. He also talked about how men were sacrificed. He also referred to the Spanish people as gods.